More of Roy Anderson's 'Dear Folks' Letters

EDITOR'S NOTE: Currently running in The Star from time to time are the last of Roy Anderson's "Dear Folks" community letters. The current batch were written in 1970, of a series that began in 1960. But the letters we will print in the next few weeks will be the last of the crop. Roy has definitely quit the "Dear Folks" series.

Here is today's installment of "Dear Folks":

By ROY ANDERSON

To you "Dear Folks" who have received my letters for several years—some 97, the last letter I wrote you all was in July, 1970—No. 97, and I started another in August, 1970—then was stricken with 'Shingles' September 10th, and never got to finish, didn't feel up to it—so we will call this one No. 98-99 & 100, as it may be the last one I write. This was written at various times—much pain and suffering from illness—and at many places and surely in different moods—so hold your hats, here is one more.

(February, 1971.) Many of you express your appreciation and said you enjoyed knowing of some of the happenings and people, history, and events of long ago, before you got here. You wondered why the Frisco Railway came "thru" Hope, and why the City Fathers gave them a whole street—Louisiana—and why M.O.P. Railway Depot is in the middle of Main Street.

You were surprised to know that we older folks have seen a wagon and team of mules "bog up" in mud at Second and Main with a load of baled cotton. No tractors, so it took a yoke of oxen to pull 'em out, and get to Ruff Boyetts warehouse where Shanhouse and Joe's City Bakery now is, and then to the Compress on the block where now is the City Hall. Years later the Compress was built where it now is. Hempstead County had nine gins to bale 30,000 bale crop.

This all changed and the farms now are in soy beans, never heard of before—cattle and poultry. The only poultry we had was each family had chickens and set the old hen over 15 eggs, a crop not for sale but for Sunday dinner. The City bought the block where the old Compress was and the City Hall was built. Prior to that the City Fathers decided to use wood to fire the boilers of the Water and Light Plant, and made that block a wood-yard.

Folks didn't realize the value of pine timber and cleared their land, selling the pine to the City for fuel, to make room for more acreage to raise cotton. Land value was about $10. per acre, but now planting pine trees, and the land value is $150. to $500. per acre (assessed for about $6.00 per acre). That's another story.

Drug Raids at Fayetteville

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) Fayetteville police raided three residences today and charged six persons with drug offenses in what officials said was the first step in a crackdown on drug offenders in Fayetteville.

Officers said they acted on a tip when they raided a basement apartment about 2 a.m. today and confiscated about 450 pills, two or three pounds of marijuana and other substances. Police said John P. Callahan, 20, and Thomas R. Brown, 21, both of Fayetteville, were arrested and charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell, a felony.

Authorities said they conducted two other raids about 8 a.m. Officers raided a three-room frame home and confiscated two plastic tubs with marijuana plants growing in them, some loose marijuana and a variety of pills. Police said Joseph Suley, 19, of Fayetteville was arrested and charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell.

Mrs. Nixon Applauded

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — A packed hall burst into applause today when Pat Nixon gave William R. Tolbert Jr., grandson of an American slave, a cheek-to-cheek embrace to mark his swearing-in as Liberia's 19th president.

Mrs. Nixon stepped up to give the traditional warm greeting after Tolbert took the oath of office from his brother, State Sen. Frank Tolbert, and kissed a large, well-worn family bible.

Tolbert said in his inaugural address that Mrs. Nixon's presence as head of the U.S. delegation "bears mute testimony to the strength, solidarity and permanence" of a "special relationship" between the United States and Liberia.

State Police investigated an accident that occurred 3 a.m. Saturday on Highway 67 three miles west of Hope. A car driven by Samuel Woodward of Texarkana, Texas, hit a bridge railing on the east end of Bois d'Arc Creek Bridge, causing a tractor-trailer driven by Harold B. Howard of Hensley, to run off the bridge. An automobile driven by Rodney B. Jones of Hope, with Robert Fravell, also of Hope, a passenger, was also involved in the accident.

Howard, driver of the tractor-trailer, was taken to a local hospital for treatment of injuries.

Woodward was charged with driving while intoxicated. Trooper Don Branch was the investigating officer.

Many Feel Raids Not Worth Cost

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Weighed against the military achievements, there seems to be growing doubt among Americans here that the decision to escalate the air war in Indochina was worth the loss of 13 crewmen and 10 American planes in three weeks.

Some wonder if the United States handed North Vietnam a propaganda victory at the expense of American prisoners of war—new and old. They also speculate that the massive attacks against North Vietnam last week may have toughened Hanoi's stand on releasing even a few prisoners of war.

Quick to play on the sensitivity of the American public to the POW issue, Hanoi made a departure by producing four newly captured airmen at a news conference and broadcasting statements of three others captured during the last three weeks of December.

President Nixon says he had no choice but to order the bombing of North Vietnam for five days last week because of stepped-up North Vietnamese infiltration efforts, assaults on U.S. reconnaissance planes, and the shelling of Saigon.

But military sources in Saigon say they have not detected stepped-up infiltration of men and supplies so far.

One U.S. military source says that over-all infiltration of men and supplies so far this year is about the same as last year and if anything is slightly less. A senior U.S. diplomatic source said the same thing a month ago.

Nixon says the five days of bombing were "very, very effective." However, there is evidence that the raids fell short of their objectives because of low cloud cover that hampered pinpoint bombing. Sources here say the poor weather is continuing and U.S. reconnaissance planes have been unable to make an accurate assessment.

Some Navy pilots who participated in the bombing campaign say it has done little to suppress North Vietnam's anti-aircraft defenses.

Rain Predicted for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain is expected to begin in the northern portion of Arkansas this afternoon and spread across the state tonight and Tuesday.

The National Weather Service says it is possible the precipitation will change to snow in the northern sections tonight and Tuesday.

The precipitation will result from a cold front that was expected to enter the state late this morning.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 43, Harrison 37, Jonesboro 33, Pine Bluff 36, Memphis 31, Texarkana 40, El Dorado 32, Little Rock 37 and Fort Smith 36.

Miners Begin Experiment

JOHNS CREEK, Ky. (AP) — A group of strip mine operators in Kentucky has begun a three-year experiment in developing greenhouse farming on hillside benches, the flat surfaces created by surface mining.

The Kentucky Surface Mining and Reclamation Association has appropriated $4,000 for the project's first year. The funds go to Johns Creek High School in this Pike County town, where a Horticultural class is starting and a greenhouse is being set up to experiment with soils and plants to find out what can best be grown on the stripped land.

Death Believed to Be Suicide

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (AP) — Listening to a poem actor Peter Duel wrote himself, an estimated 1,000 fans and friends clustered outside a chapel to honor the deceased costar of the "Alias Smith and Jones" television series.

Duel, 31, died of a gunshot wound in the head on New Year's Eve at his Hollywood Hills home. Police said it was probable suicide.

The nondenominational services Sunday were conducted by Brother Dharmaranda of the Self-Realization Fellowship Temple.

Duel's costar, Ben Murphy, was too overcome with emotion to attend the service in this Los Angeles suburb, a spokesman said.

Duel's body is to be flown to Penfield, N.Y., where the actor's parents and a grandmother live, for burial.

Hints Speedup in War Withdrawals

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying he soon may order a speed-up in U.S. troop withdrawal, President Nixon has indicated he is aiming to get down to a residual force of 25,000 to 35,000 men in Vietnam well before the November election.

Nixon's hint of a residual force of that size was the first time any senior U.S. official had used such figures in public, although plans in that range were reported unofficially more than two years ago.

The President linked the possibility of a stepup in the troop-withdrawal rate to what he said were the "very, very effective" results of last week's bombings of "selected military targets and supply buildup areas" in North Vietnam.

"Well before the first of February I will make another withdrawal announcement," Nixon said in a CBS interview Sunday night.

"Our withdrawal will continue on schedule, at least at the present rate, possibly at somewhat a larger rate."

Last November, Nixon ordered another 45,000 men brought home during December and January, to reduce the total U.S. troop commitment in Vietnam to about 139,000 by Feb. 1. At the war's peak, there were 543,500 American servicemen there.

If the December-January average withdrawal rate of 22,500 men is maintained or increased in the months ahead, the residual-force level indicated by Nixon could be reached by early summer.

Once again, the President emphasized he intends to keep some U.S. troops in Vietnam and airpower in Southeast Asia as long as the North Vietnamese hold American servicemen captive.

He put it this way: "Our goal is to end the American involvement in Vietnam before the end of this year, and before the election."

"Our preference is to end it by negotiation. If that does not work, we will do it by withdrawal through Vietnamization, but if POWs are retained by North Vietnam, in order to have any bargaining position at all with ... the North Vietnamese, we will have to continue to retain a residual force in Vietnam, and we will have to continue the possibility of air strikes on the North Vietnamese."

Pakistan Takes Over All Heavy Industry

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto nationalized most of Pakistan's heavy industry Sunday and promised an announcement today on the future of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, the East Pakistani political leader under arrest the past nine months.

Bhutto said in a broadcast that the nationalization does not apply to foreign investments and foreign credits. "We want foreign investment," he told a newsmen afterward. "We will encourage it."

Bhutto said the nationalization applied to iron and steel, basic metals, heavy engineering, heavy electrical industries, automobile and tractor plants, other heavy manufacturing, and basic chemicals. To accomplish this, the government took over the management of 20 firms with assets of at least $200 million.

But the decree did not touch cotton textile manufacturing, West Pakistan's largest industry.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Are Low

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two persons were killed on Arkansas' highways during the New Year's holiday.

The Associated Press fatality count began at 6 p.m. Thursday and ended at midnight Sunday. A Bradley County man George Hampton, 21, of near Ingalls was killed in a one-car accident near Vick (Bradley County) Sunday.

State Police said he lost control of his car and it struck a tree.

The other victim was Richard Branscum, 40, of Blytheville. Police said he was killed on a county road near Blytheville Saturday after his car overturned when it struck a horse.

dustry group and the country's biggest earner of hard currency since the loss of East Pakistan's jute production. Bhutto said he did not plan to extend government control to other smaller industries, and that having the basic industries nationalized will permit "a happy blend of the public and private sectors."

Bhutto did not mention agriculture, which apparently will remain under private ownership. But a spokesman said the president and his provincial governors had agreed to expedite land reforms "after ascertaining the views of the provincial governments."

In New Delhi, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told a public rally Sunday that India would help rebuild Pakistan's former eastern province—now the new nation of Bangladesh—despite India's own economic problem.

"We will bear this burden with a smile and shall not ask for foreign assistance in this matter," she said. "However, if any genuine assistance comes, India will have no objections."

The repatriation of refugees to Bangladesh proceeded slowly, but officials said they were confident they could send all 10 million home in about two months.

The Indian government said 650,000 refugees have crossed into Bangladesh since the war ended 18 days ago, and that the flow will increase sharply as it provides more trains, trucks and boats to transport them. But if the job is to be completed by the end of February, an average of 160,000 will have to leave every day.

Tax Loophole Helps Big Income Folks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's tax laws contained loopholes big enough for 112 Americans with incomes above $200,000 to pay no federal income taxes in 1970, according to preliminary information supplied by the Treasury Department.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said Sunday the information, supplied at his request, showed three of the free-riders each reported more than $1 million income for 1970.

In 1969, before the Tax Reform Act took effect, 300 persons with incomes of at least $200,000 paid no taxes, he added. Of those, 52 made more than $1 million.

The chief provision in the 1969 act that was supposed to end tax avoidance by the rich was a requirement for a minimum tax. Reuss called it "a love tap."

"The Tax Reform Act of 1969 was supposed to end this grand-scale tax avoidance, but it is obvious now that it hasn't done so," he said.

Between $20 billion and $30 billion in additional revenue could be raised annually if everyone was required to pay his fair share of taxes, Reuss estimated.

He said a tax reform bill he is co-sponsoring would raise about $19 billion by plugging loopholes. Another $10 million could come from repealing new tax benefits for businessmen and taxing the income of foreign subsidiaries of U.S. firms on a current basis, he said.

Wants Mistrial Records Used in Kagebien Case

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas State Supreme Court was asked today to permit the record of a mistrial to be made part of the appeal of Joe N. Kagebien from a first-degree murder conviction.

Kagebien, 16, of DeWitt was convicted last August at the age of 15 in the death of Jimmy Wayne Wampler, 27, of Wynne.

The Arkansas County Circuit Court jury fixed Kagebien's punishment at death in the electric chair. The execution was stayed by Gov. Dale Bumpers pending a settlement of Kagebien's appeal.

H. William Allen of Little Rock, who is handling Kage-bien's appeal, asked that the appeal record include the record of interviews with prospective jurors for a trial that ended in a mistrial prior to the trial that led to Kagebien's conviction.

In the mistrial, about 350 persons were called as prospective jurors but no jury was seated.

Allen said he believed the mistrial record might show "a lot of community prejudice only two months before this boy got the death penalty."

Allen indicated to newsmen that he also thought the record might show that persons were excluded from the jury because they were opposed to the death penalty for various reasons.

The U.S. Supreme Court, in the case of Witterpool v. Illinois, held that jurors could not be excluded from capital-offense trials unless they expressed opposition to the death penalty under any and all circumstances, he said.

Wampler was found dead of a shotgun blast in the head Nov. 7, 1970.

Another youth, Teddy Kittler, 16, also of DeWitt, has been convicted in the same incident and sentenced to life in prison.

Two other youths are awaiting trial on first-degree murder charges in Wampler's death. They are Larry Mannis, 17, of DeWitt and Benny West, 16, also of DeWitt.

Political Prisoner Released

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto announced today the release of Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, Radio Pakistan announced.

Sheikh Mujib was the dominant political leader of East Pakistan before his arrest in March. Rebels there have proclaimed him president of Bangladesh.

The radio said Bhutto made the announcement of his release at a mammoth public rally in Karachi where the crowd roared its approval after he asked for it.

"You have relieved me of a great burden," the radio said Bhutto replied.

The release of Mujib could pave the way for a settlement between India and Pakistan following their two-week war last month.

Mujib is the leader of the Awami League, now in power in an independent Bangladesh.

ASU Board Has New Chairman

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A member of the Board of Trustees of Arkansas State University says the board has been "considerably strengthened" by the appointment of Phillip Hout of Newport.

W. P. Gulley of Little Rock the board member, made the remarks Saturday, saying he was responding to remarks made by Joe Brooks concerning the board.

Gov. Dale Bumpers Thursday appointed Hout, 33, a lawyer, to replace Brooks, the chairman of the board whose five-year term expires Jan. 14.

Lillian Moller Gilbreth

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth, 93, an industrial engineer better known as the real-life mother of the family in the book and movie "Cheaper by the Dozen," died Sunday. Dr. Gilbreth was a pioneer in the field of time-and-motion studies and applied many of her concepts of industrial management to the running of her household and 12 children.

Felino Neri

MANILA (AP) — Felino Neri, 63, a former foreign secretary and ambassador to Japan, died Sunday in a Manila hospital following a heart seizure. Until his death, Neri was a member of his country's Foreign Policy Council.

Harold R. Pinckard

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Harold R. "Punk" Pinckard, 74, editorial page editor of the Huntington (W. Va.) Herald-Dispatch and Herald-Advertiser, died Sunday after a long illness. Pinckard had been a newsman with the Huntington Publishing Co. since 1922.

Famous Author Succumbs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) —

"When my husband first told me he wanted to have six sons and six daughters, I asked how on earth anybody could have 12 children and continue a career," Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth once recalled.

"But my husband said, 'We teach management, so we shall have to practice it.' Over a 17-year period, we had our children—all planned, I assure you."

A chronicle of the family life of Frank and Lillian Gilbreth and their 12 children—written by a son and a daughter—became a best-seller and eventually was filmed, starring Clifton Webb and Myrna Loy. Appropriately, it was entitled "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Mrs. Gilbreth, who died Sunday at the age of 93, married Frank Bunker Gilbreth in Boston in 1904 and together they pioneered in the field of time and motion study, the development of more efficient job performance.

"Cheaper by the Dozen" was a humorous account of how the Gilbreths applied their field to the running of their 14-member family. The authors were Ernestine Gilbreth and Carey and Frank Jr., now assistant publisher of the Charleston (S.C.) Evening Post and Charleston News and Courier.

Mrs. Gilbreth died at a nursing home, where she had been confined for the past three years after falling and breaking a hip. Her husband died in 1924. Ten of their 12 children survive.

Private memorial services are scheduled Jan. 9 in Scottsdale, Ariz., and Montclair, N.J., site of the Gilbreth family home.

Clara is a Latin name which means "bright; illustrious."

Da Nang Is Shelled by Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong, after threatening to retaliate for U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam, shelled the Da Nang air base early today for the first time in three months and made a mortar attack along the demilitarized zone.

The attack on Da Nang came less than an hour after a 72-hour Viet Cong cease-fire for New Year's ended. Four 100-pound rockets hit the base, wounding one American and damaging three support planes and some ground equipment, the U.S. Command said.

Da Nang is the headquarters of the U.S. 7th Air Force's 366th Tactical Fighter Wing which flew scores of F4 fighter-bomber strikes during the five days of raids on North Vietnam last week. But the command said none of the F4 Phantoms was hit.

The Viet Cong in a broadcast last Thursday said it would "strike back against American aggressors in South Vietnam" in revenge for the U.S. air raids. "We shall make the American aggressors pay heavily for their barbarous murder of our compatriots in the North."

Enemy gunners also fired 10 mortar shells into Camp Alpha, along the eastern flank of the DMZ, killing one South Vietnamese soldier and wounding two.

May Drastically Cut Coverage of Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon says he will drastically reduce the coverage of his wage-price controls this year if they prove successful in cutting the rate of inflation.

But Nixon acknowledged in a nationally televised interview Sunday night that some form of controls, although reduced in scope, still could be necessary beyond 1972.

He also pledged to cut the national unemployment rate below 5.8 per cent, but went no further on how far or when that would be accomplished. The jobless rate is now 6 per cent.

Nixon echoed his chief economic adviser, Herbert Stein, in saying it may be possible to free the economy gradually as progress is made this year against inflation.

"We will keep controls on only as long as we need them, and we are going to decontrol just as fast as we can, as the inflation psychology runs its course," Nixon said in the CBS interview with newsmen Dan Rafter.

Nixon had been asked to respond to a forecast by his just-resigned chief economic adviser, Dr. Paul W. McCracken, that some type of controls would still have to be in place beyond 1972.

"Perhaps," Nixon said, "except that if the program of controls is successful, as successful as we would hope that it would be, the amount of controls that we have towards the end may be far less than the statement by Chairman

McCracken implied. "I see the decontrol coming perhaps at a faster pace, but we will keep them on if they are necessary," Nixon said.

Stein, interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said "there is certainly a possibility" that the wage-price controls could end before the November election. "My own expectation is that we will see a gradual decontrol," Stein said.

On unemployment, Nixon said the jobless rate rose from 3.6 per cent when he took office to the current 6 per cent because of his decision to wind down the war, which he said has brought 400,000 troops home and forced layoffs of 2 million workers in defense plants.

"In all the years of the 1960s, unemployment averaged 5.8 per cent, except in the war years," he said. "Now, we can do better than that, and as we move from war to peace in the year 1972, we are going to bring the unemployment rate below that."

Workmen Clean Up Spilled Oil

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — About 125 workmen mopped up globs of crude oil on San Francisco Bay and two Pacific Ocean beaches over the weekend in a cleanup of last Friday's spill from a tanker chartered by Standard Oil Co. of California, the company reports.

Standard spokesman Dale E. Blasey said 10 boats and foot patrols were used to gather thick Indonesian oil spilled Friday during discharging operations by the Liberian tanker, Golor Obo.

Standard officials first estimated the spill at 80 gallons and said it was contained around the company's refinery at Richmond Long Wharf. Blasey said Sunday that the oil apparently had broken through barriers and "we have no way of knowing exactly how much was spilled."

"I'm fed up with it," she said. "I never intend to buy another thing they advertise on football games."

She said if football games were removed from television, "it might get some of the lazy bums off the couch."

Helping you get the Most ...
... one in a series

are our daily interest and we never stop working for you

Long before a member of Arkansas Blue Cross and Blue Shield requires health care, our Provider Relations Representatives pave the way. Through them we are in daily contact with health care providers so that when you need health care, the mechanism that pays for it is ready to swing into gear.

AT LEAST TWICE EACH YEAR we review all charges of all Arkansas hospitals. This is to assure that charges are comparable as they relate to hospitals in the surrounding area as well as to hospitals of similar size in the state. This review helps hospitals to keep their charges within proper range. And it assures our member that they are not overcharged for services they receive while in a hospital.

BUT WE DON'T STOP THERE. We conduct period on-site evaluations of the services provided to our members by hospitals. These evaluations are made in cooperation with the hospitals for the single purpose of helping them make sure that their charges are for actual services received. To our members, this means that if the service received is a simple one, the charge for it does not bear any part of the expense of other, more costly services.

WHY DO WE BOTHER? Because we believe that helping you get the most for your health care dollar is one of the most important jobs we have. And we are the only health care plan operating in Arkansas that does this!

1961 Class Reunion

The Hope High School Class of 1961 had a reunion on Christmas night, 1971, at the Hope Country Club. In an appropriate Yuletide setting a buffet supper was served to 115.

Class President Ronnie Formby was the Master of Ceremonies, and when the roll was called, the class members introduced their husbands or wives. To everyone's delight David Moore read the Class Prophecy written 10 years before.

Prizes were awarded in several categories: the person who had traveled the farthest to attend the reunion, Capt. Curtis Churchwell of the U.S. Army in Korea; the member with the most children, Acea Rogers of Hope who has three; the one who had changed the most, Bob Steed of Beaumont, Tex.; the one who had changed the least, Vonnice Edwards of Hope.

Bride-elect Feted

Miss Tina Martin, a popular bride-elect, was feted with a lingerie shower on Friday, December 31 in the home of Mrs. Terry Vines with Mrs. Randy Quillin and Miss Becky Ward, co-hostesses.

For the party Miss Martin was attired in a brown tweed pantsuit and pinned white carnations at her shoulder. Her mother, Mrs. J.B. Martin, also had white carnations, and her grandmother, Mrs. Chester Phippin, had pink carnations.

The refreshment table was centered with pink roses, and 30 guests were served punch, cookies, mints and nuts. The guest of honor received many pretty gifts.

Coming, Going

Miss Ora Mae Moody and Mrs. Hazel Castle went to North Little Rock for Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Cary Castle and Robin.

Carpet Mill Discussed

The Spears Carpet Mill, soon to be one of Hope's newest industries, was explained to the Hope Rotary Club from the standpoints of construction and planned operation by Grayson Spears at the club's weekly luncheon meeting December 31 at the Town and Country.

He said that plans had been under way for a number of months, and it was hoped to begin operation here by May 1 with 80 employees. When maximum production is reached, 175 will be employed.

Using slides taken at similar plants in Marlin, Tex., and Lewisville, the speaker showed how the carpets are made and marketed. With a $400,000 working capital the local plant will have markets in a six-state area of the South Central United States.

Comer Boyett arranged for the program and introduced the speaker and another executive of the firm, Jimmy Lester. Sydney McMath of Boston, Mass., and T. C. Cranford were also guests at the meeting, and C. R. "Dick" Moore presided in the absence of the president and the vice-president.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Oculists might compare notes on complaints of patients after the New Year weekend: There should be evidence of "football eyes"—strain suffered by the armchair fans who watched three college bowl games Saturday and two championship pro games Sunday.

On Saturday night, CBS presented a particularly amusing episode of "The Mary Tyler Moore show," a slight story about Mary undergoing a series of broken dates. With slick writing, generally amusing lines and silky performance by a cast that works like a team, the series is just about tops in the situation comedy category.

"The New Dick Van Dyke Show," which follows, reflects a heavier hand at the helm—the humor is broader, the characters and situations more stereotyped. This past week Dick was having a fight with his manager. The story line and the reactions of the principals were exaggerated.

"Mission: Impossible," after all those years cleaning up Lat-in America and Graustark, is this season eliminating syndicated crime in the United States, bit by bit. Saturday night it was halting the flow of the syndicate's illicit gains into Swiss banks. As usual, it required an incredibly intricate plan. One phase involved switching around some bodies in the embalming room of a mortuary, scenes which were unpleasantly macabre.

As the seasons roll by, the mission's team of clever agents has become as fanciful as the leads in "Bewitched." This past episode required the viewer to believe that a plastic dummy could look real enough to fool a mortician and that one small pill swallowed without water could make all visible life signs disappear for several hours.

President Nixon looked very much at ease as he gave what amounted to a report of his stewardship Sunday night during an informal, hour-long interview with CBS correspondent Dan Rather.

Rather covered most critical areas, and the President obviously expected most of the questions since he was prepared with statistics and dates.

Raindrops stop falling on your head with a new abstract print broly by Polan Katz as a protector. A color-coordinated border circles the edge of this delightful shower shedder. It has the new wide band bow tie snap closure and wood crook handle.

HELEN HELP US!

Lament of a Young Divorcee

DEAR HELEN:

I'm 22, was married three years and have two small children. Now I'm divorced. I'm writing in hope you'll print this so maybe some kids won't have to suffer what I'm going through. What is being married too young and divorced?

It's sitting home many lonely nights wondering what went wrong.

It's seeing how happy the kids are with their father on Sundays, and then hearing them cry when they come home because Daddy has to leave and they don't understand why.

It's feeling so guilty because you know that if you and your ex were more mature in mind before you jumped into marriage, you could have spared them all those tears. (And yourselves too.)

It's going out to clubs with a friend and seeing that you don't fit in with the kids your age.

It's finally meeting a guy you think you could make it with, only to find out six months later that he doesn't want to get involved with a ready-made family.

It's saying to yourself, "If only I had listened to my mother," and then realizing it's too late.

It's the feeling of always being used. A divorcee is fair game, and if she doesn't play that way—it's a lonely, depressing life, just one hurt after another. It gives you a lot of time to think—something you both should have done three years ago! —T.M.

DEAR HELEN:

This man jumps on every bandwagon and rides off in all directions. He thinks he's another Ralph Nader, but I think he's a big noise because no one notices him otherwise.

Recently he concluded a one-man march on our company because its "air pollution causes the secretaries' stockings to run." He's very high on population control and ecology, both commendable causes, but must he spend the whole noon hour espousing them? At first we laughed, now we groan, but we can't shut him up.

What can we do with this giddy-giddy man? —FELLOW WORKERS

DEAR WORKERS:

Fanaticism may be wisdom whose time has not yet come. If the bosses can put up with this pseudo Ralph Nader why not you? After all, you can always walk away or out-talk him when the crusades get too dull. —H.

DEAR HELEN:

My husband has three children by his first wife who died four years ago. He has been paying his mother to care for them.

Now that we are married, I thought the children would live with us, but my husband and his mother say, "No." They say the children don't want to live with us and it should be up to them. I say they are too young to know what they want and they should be with their father.

Why should we keep on paying his mother for baby-sitting when we can't afford? —MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.:

Which is more important to you—being a mother to your husband's children or keeping the "care" money away from your mother-in-law? If it's the first, win the kids over gradually with weekend and summer visits, so the break won't cause traumas. If it's the last, well maybe the present arrangement is best. —H.

GLITTER PATCHES

Patchwork has gone glittery. Sparkling patchwork vests will be making the night scene alone, that is without a blouse. But for the daytime shine a blouse is added.

POLO FRILLS

Polo shirts are updated with a few frilly additions. The shirts now come with cap sleeves fringed with lace and a square neckline with the same thin lace fringe.

SWEATER PEOPLE

Metamorphosis. That's what happened to the animal sweaters and vests. Now people are featured on the wardrobe. Either glamorous faces or small peoplelike paper cut-out dolls are seen holding hands all around the sweater.

SHORT COAT COMEBACK

Short coats are back in style. They're longer than the jacket, but much shorter than boot-length coats. So they're perfect for pants or midis, which would hang from a boot-length.

ORIENTAL HAIR

Oriental clothes call for a complete look, so follow through with an Oriental hair do. Hair brushed tightly back and braided in the back is a perfect look for long hairs. Hair cut straight all around with little girl bangs for short tresses. And if you don't want the look with your real hair, try one of the Oriental-look wigs.

QUICK CHANGE DRESS

Jacket dresses lend themselves to quick appearance changes. Short zip front jackets which match the bottom of the dress may be switched with contrasting jacket. Or worn without the jacket, there's a sleeveless print bodice on top.

Each Child is Different When He Has A Body Chemistry Defect

by Neil R. M. Bulst, M.D., Ch.B.
Associate Professor of Pediatrics and Director of March of Dimes Metabolic Clinic, University of Oregon Medical School

The body's chemical processes fit together in an intricate pattern. If one crucial step is off, the whole well-being of the human involved is often tragically affected.

This is what happens with a metabolic disorder. The body's chemistry has been distorted. Such disorders are called "inborn errors of metabolism" because they are inherited.

Inborn errors can be all the more dangerous than the birth defect that puts a child on crutches, since children with metabolic defects often look perfectly normal. The damage only starts to occur after birth, when they don't have access to their mother's blood through the placenta.

Some of these disorders cause severe bodily or brain damage within a few weeks of birth. Others are more subtle and may lie hidden (or latent) for months and sometimes for many years. In such cases, disorders that are undiagnosed get no treatment or the wrong treatment.

GROWING AGAIN. Dr. Neil Bulst, head of the March of Dimes clinic for metabolic disease in Portland, Ore., congratulates Tonya Fronatt, 10.

Lack of hormone

That is the reason for the March of Dimes Metabolic Clinic at the University of Oregon Medical School here in Portland. We must find the children who have these inborn birth defects of body chemistry and see that they get the hospital care and follow-up they need.

It is becoming increasingly possible to correct this kind of error. One of our patients, Tonya Fronatt, produces a low level of human growth hormone (HGH) in her pituitary gland. She is 10, but she is tiny and looks much younger. The lack of this hormone has also been the cause of the hypoglycemia that has sporadically thrown her into severe convulsions since she was three days old.

HGH is rare because it must be extracted from human pituitaries. The HGH from about 2,000 human pituitary glands would be needed to help her grow to normal size. But regular injections of the chemical have brought an end to her convulsions and she is now growing very well on it.

can be seriously threatened if his total environment is not considered.

Take Rex McCollam, admitted two years ago when he was 11, apparently with acute appendicitis. His appendix was removed. When the anesthesia wore off, this nice, quiet little boy suddenly became violent. He was vomiting and uncontrollable and he stayed that way for two weeks. Then he went back to being a nice little boy again and was sent home.

A month later he was back at the hospital with the same symptoms of acute appendicitis. Again he was violent and uncontrollable and this time he nearly died.

A nurse took some of the boy's urine and started for the lab to have it analyzed. On the way she stopped for coffee. When she came back for the urine, it had turned pink.

That started us toward a new diagnosis, porphyria, the disease that is believed to have made King George of England insane. There is still no cure. It is known that attacks of porphyria can be triggered by alcohol, by certain sedatives and by a number of environmental agents.

When we diagnosed the porphyria, we understood that the anesthesia had prompted this boy's postoperative attack. But what sent him back to the hospital a month later? Malnutrition brought on the second subsequent attack which left him with partly paralyzed legs.

So here is another element of therapy: You can't treat a chemical disorder completely unless you look for the sociological and psychological implications. That is why the March of Dimes also supports our social worker. She adds to what is the real value of this clinic: comprehensive care tailored to the needs of each child afflicted by these subtle, but deadly, inborn errors of metabolism.

BE NICE TO NECKS

When you're on that "New Year" exercising program, don't forget the neck and throat area, the most neglected part of the anatomy. And when washing off makeup, a gentle massage of the neck and throat area with a gentle cream will help tone muscles.

PINAFORE MAGIC

Go bareback in a taffeta pinafore with a jewel buckle in front. The little girl look of a pinafore, cut in a femme fatale fashion, will be a sure hit for that special cocktail party.

Cowboys Go Into Hope Star the Super Bowl

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — A bloodied young quarterback on his way to stardom and a veteran defensive end fighting for his job keyed the perennial "Next Year's Champion" Dallas Cowboys into the Super Bowl Sunday for the second consecutive year.

Quarterback Roger Staubach, a three-year man from Navy, scrambled San Francisco dizzy in a 14-3 National Conference title victory in Texas Stadium and defensive end George Andrie made the big defensive play.

"Look out Super Bowl," said Cowboy tackle Bob Lilly. "Some fans sort of ridiculed our play last year and I think we have something to prove."

There was little disappointment among the Cowboys players that they would not get a chance for revenge against Baltimore in the Super Bowl and instead would play Miami.

"We never really cared about the opponent," said linebacker Le Roy Jordan. "I said last year we would be back. And we are going to do it this time."

Andrie's interception of a John Brodie pass and his six-yard run to the 49er two-yard line in the second quarter was the defensive gem of bitterly fought game. Calvin Hill, who later left the game with an injured knee, crashed across from one-yard out for the touchdown.

Dallas' 7-0 lead held up until Bruce Gossett kicked a 28-yard field goal to make it 7-3 in the third period.

Andrie, who had shared duty this year with Pat Toomay, said, "It was just an impulsive play. We had studied San Francisco's screen plays. We were blitzing and I just saw the screen coming. Brodie threw the ball right to me. I don't think he saw me."

Andrie was tackled by Brodie and took severe ribbing from his teammates.

"George didn't wait for my block," said Dallas' other defensive end Larry Cole.

Staubach finally took some pressure off the Domsday Defense with an 80-yard drive in 14 plays deep in the fourth quarter.

Staubach, who had guided Dallas to nine consecutive victories, nailed tight end Bill Truax for 22 yards on a crucial third-and-four situation at the Dallas 45 on the drive.

Then the former Heisman Trophy winner scrambled for eight yards—his fifth run of the day against the 49ers. Duane Thomas climaxed the drive with a two-yard touchdown run.

"I was having a hard time the way San Francisco was double teaming both receivers," Staubach said. "The ball was taking off on me. I didn't want to put it up for an interception. Remember, I'm just a young guy."

Staubach got a bloodied elbow and was asked if he suffered it on one of his scrambles.

"I think I got it when I came off the field and coach (Tom) Landry bit me," Staubach joked.

Landry said Staubach's wild scrambles certainly aren't planned.

"He runs enough without any plays," smiled Landry.

San Francisco coach Dick Nolan said, "Roger's scrambling certainly helped."

Linebacker Frank Nunley added, "I think he's sometimes overlooked as a great passer because people think of him as a scrambler. He's a great passer."

And Nunley predicted, "Dallas is going to win the Super Bowl. There's no doubt in my mind."

Dallas limited San Francisco to nine first downs and intercepted Brodie three times.

Staubach's 26 points and 13 rebounds while Gilmore tallied 16 and collected 11 rebounds. The dynamic duo did all their damage early, letting the reserves mop up.

In other ABA contests, the Floridians defeated the Utah Stars 119-113 and the Denver Rockets ripped Dallas 103-84.

There were no games scheduled Saturday.

The Colonels, who have won 30 of 39 games this season and hold a 5½-game lead over Virginia in the East Division, took an 8-0 lead at the start and never were threatened by the Nets.

Rick Barry paced New York with 25.

Mack Calvin scored 32 points and had 15 assists to lead the Floridians over Utah. Larry Jones added 27 points and Warren Jabali, 23 for the winners.

Glen Combs scored 29 for the Stars, who fell behind by 18 points in the second quarter and were never able to recover.

Rookies Marv Roberts, Dave Robisch and Al Smith powered Denver over Dallas.

Roberts led Denver with 18 points while Robisch had 14 and 17 rebounds. Smith made each of his 14 points in the final quarter.

Those three took advantage of Dallas' cold shooting as the winners led throughout.

Stanford in Thriller Over Michigan

By LARRY PALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP)

Some might call it a victory for the "New Generation" over "The Establishment" or just a case of "one football team being able to beat another on any given day." But however one looks at it, Stanford University's thrilling victory over the University of Michigan in the 1972 Rose Bowl will go down as a classic in an already tradition-heavy contest.

John Ralston's free-spirited Stanford Indians, aided by the strong right foot of little Rod Garcia, upended Bo Schembechler's well-disciplined Wolverines, 13-12, in a breathtaking finish that left 103,154 fans enthralled.

Garcia, the smallest man on the field at 5-feet-9 and 155 pounds, did Michigan in with a 31-yard field goal with 12 seconds remaining in the game.

It capped one of the zaniest contests in the 58-year history of the Rose Bowl which included a saety, a fake punt and the incredibly cool passing of Stanford quarterback Don Bunce.

It was Stanford's second straight Rose Bowl victory and the third straight for the Pacific Eight Conference over the Big Ten.

"Stanford deserved to win," said Schembechler, whose team suffered its first loss in 12 games this season and its second in the Rose Bowl in the last three years. "We just didn't get the first downs when we needed them."

Stanford did it all, and did it with flair.

"I couldn't be happier in my life," said Stanford Coach John Ralston. "It was a tremendous effort by a great football team, but I don't want to take anything away from Michigan, which has a terrific team."

The Indians, who finished the regular season 9-3, did take something away—the victory. UM had it tucked away after Ed Shuttlesworth tackled sophomore Jim Ferguson of Stanford in the end zone for a safety and a 12-10 lead with just 3:18 remaining.

Stanford followed with a free kick, and all UM had to do was control the ball, but it couldn't get a first down and punted with 1:48 left.

Quarterback Don Bunce, named player of the game, then took the Indians for their 22 to the Michigan 14 mostly on pin-point passing.

Then Garcia, a 5-foot-9 sophomore who missed five field goals and an extra-point kick in a 13-12 loss to San Jose State this season, became the hero with his winning kick.

Marinero, a Cornell running back, finished second in the Heisman voting and said he should have won.

What Mildren left unsaid was the inescapable conclusion that he—Mildren—was the more effective of the two quarterbacks, although Sullivan wound up passing for 250 yards.

Mildren, a master of deceit with left hands and feet, ran around and through a quick Auburn defense for three touchdowns and 149 yards en route to a 40-22 victory.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks, whose Oklahoma team lost only to top-ranked Nebraska by four points, said for piloting the Sooner offensive scheme.

"Mildren is the best college football player in America."

Mildren, a product of Abilene, Tex., impressed writers covering Sugar Bowl preparations with his modest, but forthright manner.

"One reason I went to Oklahoma was because I thought we had a chance to win the national championship, but now that's out," Mildren said before the game.

Lakers Get Past Celtics for No. 30

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The secret to scoring 40 points, says Gail Goodrich, is all in the mind.

"I worked hard at being mentally prepared for tonight's games," said the Los Angeles Lakers' pocket-sized guard after his scoring spree had carried the Lakers past the Boston Celtics 122-113 Sunday night for their 31st straight victory.

"I just wasn't ready to play against Seattle," said Goodrich of his 12-point performance in win No. 30 last Thursday night. "I felt lethargic and slow. I just wasn't mentally prepared. But tonight I felt good."

He felt a great deal better than Celtics Coach Tommy Heinsohn, whose team rallied from a 20-point second-half deficit to within five but couldn't catch up.

"The Lakers won this game at the free throw line," he said. "It's just unreal to me that we only had eight free throws in the first half and they had 27."

But just as damaging to the Celtics, who lost their second straight game after winning 10 in a row, was their own inaccuracy from the floor. They took 25 more shots than the Lakers in the first half but hit only 36 per cent to the Lakers' 56.

John Havlicek and Dave Cowens scored 29 apiece to lead Boston, while Jerry West and Jim McMillian had 27 each for Los Angeles.

West also recorded his 5,000th career assist, a feat achieved by only four other players—Bob Cousy, Guy Rodgers, Lenny Wilkens and Oscar Robertson.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, Detroit edged Houston 109-107, Philadelphia walloped Cleveland 148-119, Atlanta defeated Phoenix 116-111, and Portland trounced Buffalo 108-90.

Jimmy Walker, who scored 26 points, hit a foul line jumper at the final buzzer, lifting Detroit past Houston. The Rockers' Mike Newlin had tied the score 107-107 with two free throws with five seconds remaining.

Houston's Elvin Hayes matched Walker for high scoring honors with 26 points.

Philadelphia's 148 points were its high for the season and the most ever scored by any team against Cleveland. Billy Cunningham led the 76ers assault with 38 points. Bobby Smith topped the Cavaliers with 28 points.

Don Adams scored two baskets in the first minute of the final period and two more in the last two minutes, helping Atlanta beat Phoenix. Walt Belamy paced the Hawks with 30 points, one more than Lou Hudson. Clem Haskins was high for Phoenix with 29.

Rookie Sidney Wicks fired in 30 points and Geoff Petrie played the role of playmaker in leading Portland past Buffalo. Fred Hilton, also a rookie, netted 26 points for the Braves.

In the NBA Saturday, it was: New York 104, Cincinnati 94; Phoenix 114, Boston 104, and Seattle 97, Buffalo 83.

first time in four years after being on probation by the NCAA for recruiting infractions, won the prestigious Far West Classic last week.

St. Louis, which finished in a three-way tie for the Missouri Valley Conference title last season but was baten by Louisville 68-66 in a playoff, was not considered a championship contender this season. But the surprising Billikens have reeled off five consecutive victories. Last week, they won their won holiday tourney, their first tournament championship since the Kentucky Invitational in 1960.

Rich Stallworth led the Billikens to the crown. In two games he scored 37 points, grabbed 24 rebounds, had 15 assists and was voted the tournament's most valuable player.

Ron King, Florida State's leading scorer last season with a 22.7 average, and Reggie Royals, 13th in the nation last year in rebounding, paced Florida State in the Far West Classic. Both were named to the All-Tournament team.

"Florida State is the best team we've seen all season," said Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller after the Seminoles had edged the Beavers 73-72 in the semifinals.

LOS ANGELES LAKER owner Jack Kent Cooke, center, has a lot to smile about these days, since new coach Bill Sharman, right, and his assistant, K. C. Jones have turned the Lakers into a devastating basketball team.

Lions Shackle Texas

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Whether they want to admit it or not, Coach Joe Paterno and his Penn State Nittany Lions struck a blow for Eastern football New Year's day that was seen and heard around the nation.

Penn State shackled the Texas Longhorns' awesome Wishbone attack and blew the Southwest Conference champions out of the Cotton Bowl 30-6 before 72,000 fans and a national television audience.

There was a hint that the sly Paterno had lulled the Longhorns into a sense of false security.

Paterno cried for a week that his poor Lions weren't ready for the Cotton Bowl game. He talked about Texas as if the Longhorns were the German Wehrmacht marching through Poland in World War II. Penn State, however, belied its coach's fears, holding Texas without a touchdown for the first time in 80 games and seven years.

While its defense was chewing up the Wishbone, Penn State's offense ripped for 27 second-half points to erase a 6-3 halftime deficit and post the most lopsided Cotton Bowl victory since Oklahoma A&M routed Texas Christian 34-0 in 1945.

Senior linebacker Gary Gray, speaking about Paterno's pregame lament, said "Coach Paterno might have been fibbing a little. Actually, we defended the thing (Wishbone) pretty good in practice. I can't blame the coach though. Suppose we lost by 45 points. What could he have said?"

All-American halfback Lydell Mitchell, who gained 146 yards on 27 carries, and scored one touchdown, also said Paterno should get an academy award for his pre-game act.

"I think Joe tried to use psychology on the other people," said Mitchell amid the hubbub of the Nittany Lions dressing room. "Deep down in his heart he knew we could do the job. If not we wouldn't be here."

Paterno and his team insisted after the rout that they had not won any crusade for Eastern football.

"It was a big plus for Penn State," Paterno said. "I don't know what that does for our prestige, that's up to you fellows," the coach of the nation's 10th ranked team told newsmen.

"You say what you want to. These kids won for themselves,

Nebraska Leaves No Doubt About Who Is No. 1 Team

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unbeaten Nebraska erased any question about who's No. 1 in college football by romping to a 38-6 triumph over second-ranked—and previously unbeaten—Alabama in the Orange Bowl Saturday night.

"This is one of the greatest teams ever to play football," boasted Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney.

His counterpart at Alabama, Paul "Bear" Bryant, agreed.

"They are one of the greatest—if not the greatest—teams I've ever seen," Bryant said. "We were beaten soundly by a far superior team. Most of the time they just toyed with us."

Nebraska—finishing its season 13-0 and stretching its winning streak to 23 games and its undefeated skein to 32—overwhelmed Alabama in the first half. The Cornhuskers exploded for four touchdowns within eight minutes, 12 seconds of the first half on offense, while smothering Alabama's wishbone attack on defense.

In other New Year's Day Bowl games, third-ranked Oklahoma roared to a 31-0 halftime lead, then coasted past Auburn 40-22 in the Sugar Bowl; sophomore Rod Garcia booted a 31-yard field goal with 12 seconds left to give Stanford a 13-12 upset victory over No. 4 Michigan in the Rose Bowl and Penn State, trailing 6-3 at the half, surged back to outscore Texas 27-0 in the second half and take a 30-6 decision over the Longhorns in the Cotton Bowl.

In Friday contests, Colorado whipped Houston 29-17 in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, Georgia squaked past North Carolina 7-3

Dolphins Upset Baltimore Colts

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

MIAMI (AP) — Rattened down the hatches, New Orleans. Fasten your seat belts, Dallas Cowboys. You haven't seen anything yet.

The Miami Dolphins are Super Bowl bound, and they take with them the hopes of the downtrodden and the loudest, wildest cheering section in professional football.

The Dolphins, the one time step-child of the American Football League, keep bumping off the big boys. And the people here on this sub-tropical Peninsula just keep on yelling, screaming, bragging and waving handkerchiefs until the outsider fears his ears and nerves will surely pop.

It's the 1969 baseball Mets with palm trees, green sweat shirts and helmets.

On Sunday, it was time for the champion Baltimore Colts—the poised team of Johnny Unitas and gargantuan Bubba Smith—to get their come-uppance just as the Kansas City Chiefs got theirs in double overtime the week before.

The Dolphins whipped the Colts 21-0—the first shutout for the defending National Football League Champions since the Chicago Bears pulled one off Dec. 5, 1965—and qualified to meet the Dallas Cowboys in the Super Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 16.

Dolphin fans fell into a state of hysteria.

Now nobody is shrugging off this brash band of former ragamuffins, coached by Don Shula and quarterbacked by Bob Griese, five years out of Purdue—least of all the vanquished Colts.

"Can Miami beat the Cowboys? I don't know why not," said Baltimore's 38-year-old field general, Unitas. "They're a fine team. Griese is a good quarterback. They have a good rush. They don't make many mistakes."

The 6-foot-8, 265-pound Bubba Smith, black, bearded and dazed by the systematic destruction of the great Colts team, was quick to agree.

"You bet," said Smith. "But they gotta run the ball and they gotta rush the passer. They do things like our team is famous for doing, capitalizing on the other team's mistakes and then hitting when you got the other team groggy. They're good."

The beaten giant—hours after the final score had gone on the scoreboard—still was unwilling to believe that disaster had really struck.

"It's a mystery to me—I don't understand it," he mumbled in his beard, shaking his head. "I think this team is better than the one a year ago when we won. It's the best Baltimore team in the five years on the squad."

"Yet these guys went out and beat us at our own game," Don McCafferty, who moved up to head coach when Don Shula left the Colts to take over the Dolphins' meager fortunes two years ago, offered his own considered version of the upset.

"They came up with the big plays," he said, "and we didn't. When we needed a field goal, we missed. When we needed a pass, we didn't get it. When we needed five yards on third down, we failed."

The Dolphins produced a textbook victory. They gave Unitas breathing room and then stopped him cold when he started to threaten. Their blocking was decisive, their tackling vicious, they struck with merciless swiftness.

The game was little more than eight minutes old when Griese faded back and arched a pass into the arms to wide receiver Paul Warfield on the Baltimore 40. Warfield, in full stride, caught the ball over Rick Volk's shoulder and then won the race to the goal line—a 75-yard thrust. Little Garo Yepremian kicked the first of his three extra points.

With 4:33 left in the third period, a Unitas pass to Eddie Hinton was tipped by defender Curtis Johnson. Safety Dick Anderson caught it in the air and, behind great blocking, raced 62 yards to score. Now it was 14-0.

The Dolphins dealt the coup de grace in the last period, Larry Csonka scoring from the five after a 50-yard Griese pass to Warfield.

The Colts, who beat the Cowboys in the Super Bowl here a year ago on a 32-yard field goal by Jim O'Brien, played without hard-running Norm Bulaich and with only partial service from workhorse Tom Matte, both injured.

But it's doubtful that the staunchest Colts fan would think the two men's presence might have altered the outcome.

Twins Carriers

Kentucky Colonel guard Darel Carrier has a twin brother, Harel.

Rushing Habit

Washington Redskins defensive end Verlon Biggs says getting a quick start off the line is vital to rushing the passer. "It's got to become automatic," he says. "It's like eating in the dark. Your elbow bends and your mouth flies open. It's got to be a habit like that."

Nightmare for Crimson Tide

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — "Greatest" was all anybody could say about Nebraska's Cornhuskers. Knute Rockne's fabled Notre Dame teams were brushed aside, the Doc Blanchard-Glenn Davis powerhouses at Army were suddenly forgotten.

"This is probably the greatest team ever to play college football," said Nebraska's coach, Bob Devaney. "Who's better?"

Nobody challenged the balding, chunky Cornhusker general. Nebraska had just turned the Orange Bowl's dream matching with No. 2 Alabama into a nightmare for Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant and the Crimson Tide.

It wound up 38-6, but Saturday night's massacre wasn't as close as the score indicated. The Cornhuskers rolled to a certain second consecutive national championship.

"Nebraska's one of the greatest, if not THE greatest team ever," said Bryant, licking wounds from his worst beating in 27 coaching years. "We were whipped by a vastly superior team."

George C. Wallace, Alabama's controversial governor, had taken a double dose from the Big Eight Conference.

"I went to New Orleans and saw our Auburn team get whipped bad by Oklahoma (40-22)," said Wallace. "Then, I flew to Miami with the hope that it was a new day and things would be different. They weren't. It's a sad day for Alabama. But, we're still proud of both our teams."

Rich Glover, Nebraska's 245-pound defender, never worried much about the Southeastern Conference champions after the Huskers edged Oklahoma 35-31 in the regular season.

"The pressure was off, as far as I was concerned, after we beat Oklahoma," said Glover. "We had a much easier time with Alabama. I had a feeling it was going to happen."

Bryant was as convinced as any of the 78,151 Orange Bowl fans that Nebraska was the world's finest. The Bear, caught in the middle of a clasp of Huskers as he tried to congratulate Devaney at midfield, raised a single finger in salute as people around him shouted, "We're No. 1."

lead.

"There is no doubt they are the biggest, strongest, finest looking team I've seen," Sullivan raved.

The field goal by Garcia in the Rose Bowl climaxed a dramatic last-minute drive engineered by Stanford quarterback Don Bunce.

Taking over with 1:48 remaining to play, Bunce moved his team 78 yards in eight plays, including five complete passes for 66 yards.

"We were really pulling some plays out of the air at the end," Bunce said after the game. "I was so excited I didn't even know what I was calling. All the plays on that last drive were audibles."

Michigan had taken a 12-10 lead late in the fourth quarter on a safety when Ed Shutesworth tackled Jim Ferguson of Stanford in the Indians' end zone. Ferguson was trying to run back a short field goal attempt.

Penn State, licking its wounds after losing to Tennessee 31-11 in a nationally televised regular season finale, made believers out of the Texas Longhorns with a powerful defensive effort. The Nittany Lions caused five Texas fumbles and held the Longhorns without a touchdown—something that had not happened in 80 games.

"I don't think we ever had a bigger win when we needed one," said Penn State Coach Joe Paterno.

"They deserved to win in every respect," conceded Texas Coach Darrell Royal.

All-American running back Lydell Mitchell gained 146 yards on 27 carries for Penn State, including one touchdown on a one-yard run.

Sophomore tailback Charlie Davis gained 202 yards on 37 carries to pace Colorado in the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl.

Defense dominated the Gator Bowl, with Jimmy Poulos scoring the game's only touchdown on a 25-yard run. Poulos gained 161 yards for Georgia and was voted the game's most valuable player.

SMU's Gary Hammond threw two touchdowns to lead the West team to victory in the 47th annual Shrine East-West game. Hammond also caught two passes as a flanker and played some at running back.

Nixon Plans on Keeping Agnew BumpersSeeks More Taxes for Highways

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Hinting broadly he will seek reelection with Spiro T. Agnew as his running mate, President Nixon has given Americans a glimpse at a campaign-year platform built on his moves for peace abroad and a healthier economy at home.

In an hour-long nationally televised interview Sunday night, Nixon said he will announce by Jan. 14 his decision on running for another term, and added he sees no reason at present to "break up a winning combination" by dumping Vice President Agnew.

Responding to questions of CBS correspondent Dan Rather as they sat before a crackling fire in the White House Oval Office, Nixon said:

—The rate of withdrawing U.S. troops from Vietnam will continue at present—or perhaps accelerated—levels in early 1972. But he indicated that a residual force of 25,000 to 35,000 Americans would stay until prisoners of war are freed.

—He will cut drastically the coverage of his wage-price-rent controls this year if they continue to succeed in trimming the rate of inflation, but some controls may be needed beyond 1972 to keep the economy cool.

—As the nation moves "from war to peace in the year 1972, we are going to bring the unemployment rate below" the 5.8-per-cent average of the non-war years in the decade of the 1960s.

—He will not allow the Communists to gain "any bargaining advantage due to my desire to affect our election campaign" when he travels to Peking and Moscow for election-year summit talks.

—The Soviet Union has escalated arms shipments to Egypt and "we will not allow the military balance in the Mideast to be shifted" against Israel, which is seeking more U.S. Phantom jets.

—Negotiations still are under way at various levels to free Vietnam POWs. This will be discussed when he goes to Peking and Moscow, and recent Chinese release of two Americans offers "one slightly hopeful note."

After disclosing he will make his re-election plans known by Jan. 14—in time for the New Hampshire primary—Nixon added:

"Whatever my decision ... I will engage in no public partisan activities until after the Republican convention. The problems of the presidency ... are so great that it will not be possible to take time off for partisan politics."

But later in the interview Nixon sketched a peace-and-prosperity platform he is likely to use in his expected re-election bid.

Silky Wool Biggest Threat to Vicuna

By WILLIAM H. HEATH
Associated Press Writer
LIMA, Peru (AP) — The vicuna's wool is about the silkiest you can find. That attribute threatens its extinction.

The vicuna—pronounced vih-KOON-ya, runs wild in contrast to its domesticated relatives, the larger llama and alpaca.

By one estimate, only about 15,000 survive in four South American countries, down from perhaps 400,000 two decades ago. The reason is the coveted wool. In a raw state this sells for $25 a pound. Cloth made from it may bring nearly $300 a yard on European markets.

Laws against killing of the animal or the sale of its wool have meant little to poachers. They have been known to poison water holes and machine gun vicuna herds from helicopters hovering above the treeless plains of the Andean plateau or

Ceremonies for New President

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Cannons boomed out over the ocean at dawn today to start Inauguration Day for William Tolbert, grandson of an American slave and the new president of Liberia.

America's first lady, Pat Nixon, was the top-ranking guest for the ceremonies—from oath-taking and inaugural address to a three-hour parade of celebration and an inaugural ball lasting until midnight.

On inaugural eve, capping a 12-hour first day in Liberia, Mrs. Nixon sat down Sunday night for a private talk with Tolbert that she said would be "substantive."

Aides did not disclose what they talked about during their half-hour session in the executive mansion.

Mrs. Nixon, heading the U.S. delegation to the inaugural, looked a bit wilted after a day in which she was given 19-gun welcoming salute, waved at thousands on an hour-long motorcade from the airport into Monrovia, met Liberian officials at a champagne reception, held a coffee session with the press and went to a hot, crowded 80-minute afternoon church service that launched the inaugural activities.

Evangelist Billy Graham, a member of the U.S. delegation, was among the participants in the ecumenical service in the small, whitewashed stone First Providence Baptist church.

Graham in a prayer of thanksgiving said Liberia may never become an economic or military superpower. But he prayed that under its new leader the country "will become a spiritual superpower that will show nations of the world the way to peace and prosperity is through the transformation of the human heart."

The weather was torrid in the West African capital, and Mrs. Nixon changed from the red, white and blue print she arrived in to a cool, long-sleeved yellow and white linen for the afternoon.

She called her welcome "fabulous," from the crowds to the native dancers. "They all seemed so happy," she commented. "It's really a treat to see fun-loving people."

Simple Burial for Chevalier

PARIS (AP) — Maurice Chevalier, who wanted "to go out discreetly and with dignity," will be buried after a simple private ceremony Wednesday. He will lie in a vault alongside his mother.

The 83-year-old entertainer, who for half a century spelled Paris to audiences on both sides of the Atlantic, died of heart failure Saturday after three weeks hospitalization for a kidney ailment.

His nephew, Rene Chevalier, said funeral services will be held in the little church at Marnes La Coquette, where Chevalier lived just west of Paris, with burial in the village cemetery. His mother died in 1926.

"All his life he considered himself as an artisan," said the nephew. "He wanted to finish like this, to have no visitors, not have his body on view at the time of his final departure and to join, with simplicity, his dear mother."

Mourners were turned away from the gates of Chevalier's luxurious home Sunday. "No one is permitted in. These were his last wishes, and no exceptions will be made," they were told.

President Georges Pompidou, in a tribute, said: "The French people recognized themselves in him and foreigners found in his person an image of France, a partial image no doubt, but gay and warm. That is why this popular tenderness which will accompany him to the tomb will be even more touching than his triumphs in the theater."

Agnew BumpersSeeks More Taxes for Highways

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers says his office is studying several methods of financing road improvements in Arkansas, including a gasoline tax increase, a bond issue and a combination of both the tax increase and bond issue.

Bumpers said Sunday in a television program shown on Little Rock station KTHV that 75 per cent of the persons responding to a recent poll considered the condition of the state's highway system a major problem. He said, however, that more than 90 per cent of those who responded to the poll opposed a gasoline tax to finance improvements.

"You cannot build roads with our present revenues that people want built," Bumpers said. He said he and the General Assembly must "bite the bullet" and find a way to finance the improvements.

The governor said he believed hopes for toll roads in the state were "virtually dead." He also said he doubted that he would

Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Police say a slick gang of bandits, who used a sleek black limousine to lull security guards and gain entrance to the elegant Hotel Pierre, may have made off with more than $1 million in cash and jewelry from 47 safe deposit boxes.

Detectives said one man, whom they did not identify, had satisfied them that he had lost jewelry and money worth $200,000. Chief of Detectives Albert A. Seedman indicated that the early Sunday robbery might turn out to be the biggest hotel heist ever pulled here.

The Pierre, one of the nation's most luxurious hotels, is located on Fifth Avenue at 61st Street, overlooking Central Park. About half of its units are cooperative apartments at sell for $200,000 to $300,000. To keep out undesirables, the hotel locks its doors between 1 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. But a security guard is posted inside to admit guests.

It was just after 4 a.m. Sunday when the sleek limousine pulled up to the 61st Street entrance. Two well-dressed men got out and carried their bags to the door. They told the guard they had a reservation.

When he unlocked the door, they walked in and the startled guard saw they were carrying guns and one was wearing a rubber nose. Two other gang members apparently followed.

The gang quickly rounded up 16 employees—including three guards, bell boys and others—and herded them into the executive offices. Using 14 sets of handcuffs and a supply of adhesive tape, they bound the captives and made them lie on the floor.

While the rubber-nosed man stood guard, the other members of the gang went to the battery of safe deposit boxes behind the cashier's office and began forcing them open.

Seedman said the men used a guest list to select the boxes and the hotel manager, J.V. Bennett, later denied this, saying the boxes were opened randomly.

At one point a guest, Haelio Fraga, a lawyer from Rio de Janeiro, telephoned the desk to find out why he could not get an elevator. A gunman donned an operator's jacket and went to the floor.

But when he couldn't make the car go down, he dropped his disguise and took Fraga, his wife and his mother-in-law to the executive offices with the other captives.

At 5:40 a.m., the gang packed its haul in the suitcases and left. A few minutes later, one of the captives got loose and called police.

Nixon Plans Campaign His on Way

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided the best way to campaign for re-election during the next eight months is simply by being President.

So he is spurning "public partisan activities" even as he prepares to announce by mid-January that he is, indeed, seeking a second term in the White House.

The first public step in that candidacy is due today, with Nixon's New Hampshire organization expected to announce that the President's name will be on the ballot in the Republican presidential preference primary March 7.

Nixon said Sunday night he will make his own announcement by Jan. 14. That presumably will come with the filing of a slate of 14 New Hampshire Republicans, pledged to support his renomination, as candidates for seats at the Republican National Convention.

The President said flatly that he will not campaign, in New Hampshire or in the potential primaries, and implied that he doesn't expect two Republican challengers, one on the right and one on the left, to cause him major political problems.

"I have decided that I will engage in no public partisan activities until after the Republican convention," Nixon said in a CBS interview. "The problems of the presidency, the problems of this office in which we sit, in this year 1972, are so great that it will not be possible to take time off for partisan politics."

The Republican game plan, clearly, is to let the corps of would-be Democratic challengers slug out the active campaign until late summer, while Nixon performs from the best of all sages, the presidency.

Party spokesmen and proxy campaigners certainly will miss no opportunity to draw the contrast, and to depict Nixon as above such political wrangling.

It is a scenario well adapted to Nixon's self-assessment, for the President said that his strong points are not rhetoric, showmanship, the attributes that create glamor, excitement and charisma.

"My strong point, if I have a strong point, is performance," he said.

Talking of his forthcoming announcement, Nixon recalled that former President Lyndon B. Johnson decided against seeking re-election, but added: "I do not anticipate that events such as led President Johnson to his decision may affect my decision."

Fire Claim Lives of 17

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Seventeen persons died in five fires Sunday and early today. Twelve of the dead were children, including four boys from a California family and three youngsters who died in a Kansas City home.

Three of the fires occurred Sunday in New York State, including a huge blaze at a Pillsbury grain mill in Buffalo where a worker died as rescuers tried to dig him out of a pile of rubble.

A pre-dawn blaze today in Vista, Calif., took the lives of Mrs. Kenneth Collins, 30, and her sons, Bobby, 10; Jimmy, 8; Keith, 6, and Stevie, 1½. The father was reported in fair condition after the fire of undetermined origin raced through their wood and stucco house.

A fire in a Kansas City home early today killed three children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lofton and left the parents suffering burns, smoke inhalation and shock. The dead were Lisa, 4; Crelle, 2½, and Joseph Jr., 18 months.

In the Buffalo mill fire, Deputy Fire Commissioner Thomas Lahiff said two other workers were reported missing and were presumed dead. Ten workers were hospitalized, five in critical condition.

City fire officials theorized that a welder's torch set off the explosions and fire but Pillsbury President Terrance Hanold Lang, both 60, and Lawrence Wilson, 35,

Letters To The Editor

This is your newspaper. Write to it. Address letters to: Editor The Star, P.O. Box 648, Hope, Ark. 71801.

All letters must be signed, with address so you are identified to the newspaper staff, but if the character of the letter permits we will allow use of a pen-name in the publication, in which case you should add "Citizen," or some other word below your real name and address.

Pen-names are permitted when a letter deals only with issues. Direct attacks upon public officials, however, must bear the writer's name for publication.

JULIET MILLS' television series, "Nanny and the Professor," has been canceled but the British actress has decided to stay in the United States to live.

Dislikes Word
Editor the Star: I agree with your nomination of Tom Ed Hays, Jr. as "Man of the Year" for 1971 as set forth in "All Around Town", December 29 issue of the Hope Star.

There are several things in your write-up, however, which rankle me just a bit. Perhaps I am misinterpreting your terminology and choice of words. If so, I apologize, but if I did not misinterpret them, I feel you owe an apology to a great many men and women who have labored long and hard to bring about the present industrial climate which makes our area attractive to industry seeking a new home.

To use a derogative term such as "so-called city fathers" to describe men who have given hours of their time to produce a progressive community which, incidentally does no harm to the Hope Star revenue, is both wrong and beneath your responsibilities as a journalist. Then to accuse them of "hand-picking" the "Man of the Year" carries all the connotation of smoke-filled backroom politics at its worst. You do the Chamber of Commerce committee appointed for the selection a great dishonor and place them in a most embarrassing situation.

We trust you will accept this letter in the spirit in which it is intended. Yours sincerely,
GEORGE T. FRAZIER

Juliet Mills Won't Go Home Again

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Tucked away in a drawer in Juliet Mills' bedroom is a return ticket to England. When ABC brought her over here to do Nanny and the Professor, one of the parts of the deal was that they give her return transportation for when the series ended.

The series is ended. Nanny and the Professor has been canceled. But Juliet Mills is not going to use the ticket.

She has become a convert and this will be her home henceforth. Actually, she's going to exchange that first-class ticket for two round-trip tourist tickets, and she and her 7½-year-old son, Sean, are going to visit the folks back in England before they come back here to settle down.

Sean doesn't even want to do that much. He's completely Americanized now. Juliet says he doesn't even speak like an English boy any more. And all his interests are American.

"Last weekend," she says, "he went to Indian Dunes with Steve McQueen and his sons. Sean brought along his mini-bike, and Steve had his motorcycle. They rode up and down the dunes for five straight hours—didn't even stop to go to the bathroom or have lunch."

When Nanny and the Professor got the ax, Juliet called England to tell her father, actor John Mills, the bad news. What he told her only strengthened her determination to stay here.

"Don't come back," Mills told his daughter. "There's nothing doing here."

Juliet says, as an indication of how slow things are in England, that her father didn't work for almost a year after he won his Oscar for "Ryan's Daughter." That's how bad the movie business is in England.

But it isn't work that's keeping Juliet in America. She has come to love it here in California. And the series she did was a tremendous help to her identity.

"It made me a person," she says, "not just John Mills' daughter or Hayley Mills' sister. That's what I used to be, even though I'd done some very good things on the stage in London."

Not too long ago, Hayley was stopped for her autograph in London. But the person who stopped her made it clear that the only reason he wanted her to sign was because she was Nanny's sister. The show was very successful in England.

"The tables are turned, finally," Juliet says.

But she adds, hastily, that there is not now, and never has been, any sisterly jealousy between the two. At the time Hayley started her career, in "Tiger Bay," she was 12—and big sister Juliet was appearing in "Five Finger Exercise," a prestigious play, in London.

"We have never competed for parts," Juliet says, "and I don't think we ever will—we're not the same type at all."

Still, it's obviously pleasant for her to be recognized now as a star in her own right, not merely because of a family connection.

She figures she'll be working again soon. There are several deals in the works. But there's no raving hurry.

"For the first time in my life," she says, "I'm not going to panic. For the first time in my adult life, I don't have to worry about paying the rent."

Oswald: "Here is a simple hand with features of great interest. North's jump to three spades is a limit raise, but South has enough above a minimum to warrant going to game."

Jim: "With either the spade finesse working or the ace of diamonds on the right side four spades is a lay down. However, both cards are wrong. A diamond lead will defeat the contract."

Oswald: "Fortunately for South, West had a normal opening lead of a heart so that South should have made his contract."

Jim: "Your use of 'should' implies that South went down. I assume he tried the spade finesse at trick two and that after taking his king East was smart enough to lead a low diamond away from his ace."

Oswald: "That's exactly what happened. East could

Jim: "If South had taken time to think at trick two he would have led a club toward dummy and set up a discard for dummy's four of diamonds. This would guard against the actual card combination with very little risk."

NO QUESTION TODAY
Saturday's Answer Tomorrow

downward, killing him instantly. Could the power company be held legally liable by the boy's family? In a court hearing, they blamed his death on the fact that the high-tension line had not been insulated.

However, the court held the company not responsible. The judge said Jimmy's use of copper wire instead of an ordinary string was too unusual to have been foreseen and guarded against.

Courts generally agree that power companies cannot be expected to take precautions against freak accidents. Nevertheless, since electricity is such a dangerous product, they do carry a higher-than-average burden of responsibility.

In another case, a boy's kite snagged on a power pole. When he climbed the pole to retrieve his kite, he touched an uninsulated line and suffered a bad burn.

This time, three factors weighed against the company: 1) that the pole was right next to a playground; 2) that it had low steps, easy for children to climb; and 3) that no DANGER signs had been posted.

A court duly awarded damages to the injured boy, saying that the company could fairly have foreseen this kind of an accident.

And tree climbing is even more foreseeable than pole climbing. Thus:

A boy got a shock from an uninsulated wire that passed through the upper branches of a tree in front of his house. Sued later for damages, the power company pointed out that there was nothing in the tree—no snagged kite, no frightened kitten, no tempting fruit—that would justify the boy's venture into the treetop.

But the court held the company liable anyhow, for misjudging human nature.

"The immemorial habit of small boys to climb trees," said the court, "is a habit which corporations stretching their wires over such trees must take notice of."

The Art of Buying Art

By CARLTON SMITH

It has been repeatedly pointed out that investment in art can outperform (not to mention the bonus of pleasure) an investment in stocks and bonds. Fine. But can a person of modest means afford really first-rate, "investment-grade" art?

You probably wouldn't have bought Louis Valtat's "Children's Games" when the oil painting sold in Paris, about three years ago, for $33,600. But a few weeks later you might have bought at auction, in New York, a small Valtat drawing for $50—and owned the work of a major artist.

The recent top price for an oil by Paul Signac was $125,000. One of his drawings was auctioned, in a recent year, for $64. An oil by Serusier sold in Geneva, six years ago, for $20,930. Six months later one of his drawings went at auction for $32, and a watercolor for $220.

The examples are drawn from an extraordinary book, just published: "Encyclopedia of Modern Art Auction Prices," by Michele Berard. The big, atlas-size tome covers 282 artists—virtually every modern painter of any significance—listing the sale price of every piece of their art sold at auction between 1961 and 1969.

Mme. Berard, a young Parisienne who's as pretty as a picture herself, is an authority on modern art who counsels a new major collectors on what to buy, and for how much. Her answer to the question, "Is there a place in the average family's budget for investment-quality art?" is an emphatic "yes."

She begins with the thesis that almost any work by a major artist is going to appreciate in value. "The signature itself has value; even an inferior work is a fairly good investment." But, she goes on, you needn't be a collector of second- and third-rate work. Many fine works are to be found, at budget prices, among these artists' drawings and watercolors—and "a fine watercolor should always be preferred to a poor oil."

Example: Paintings by Laprade have recently sold in the $5,000-to-$8,000 range, though one brought only $920. Concurrently, his watercolors were going for $44, $62, $86—and up to $1,360.

But how is the amateur to know which artists' works are "investments in a signature"—and how much to pay? Mme. Berard agrees it's a major stumbling block. "It is too often ignorance of the financial value of paintings, and fear of blundering, that prevent the art lover from starting a collection."

A good deal of that ignorance and fear can be dispelled by browsing through the encyclopedia. There's an answer here to "which artists?" since each of the 282 listed, and given a short biography, is an important modern artist. And by scanning the year-by-year listings of sale prices, the beginner can get a feel for what a "right price" would be. More, he can see which painters have been increasing in popularity and demand, as their prices climb (or zoom) from year to year—and whose prices have leveled off, or started skidding.

While the encyclopedia is undoubtedly aimed at the serious collector's library, and the professional's desk, it can be highly educational for the amateur or beginner. Put in some study time here, and you can sally forth to the galleries and auctions with confidence in your ability to spot an investment.

Granted, at the publisher's price (Arco Publishing Co., N.Y., $45), you'll probably head for the public library rather than the bookstore. Or you could organize a neighborhood Art Investors Club, and all chip in.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

There's a Lot You Can Do

First Aid Tips for Heart Attack

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—It has happened again in our circle of friends. An apparently healthy man in his late 40s died suddenly of a heart attack. I worry that someone close to me or someone visiting our home will suddenly need help and I will not know what to do.

You could help a great deal by stating what happens to a person suffering from an attack and what we could do to help while waiting for a doctor or ambulance. There must be something specific that might even save a person or things one should not do.

Dear Reader—A very good question. About one out of four deaths in this country is from a heart attack. Briefly here is what I recommend:

1. Let the victim lie on his side with his face on the side and turned downward. This will prevent his tongue from falling back and obstructing the windpipe, or prevent choking if vomiting should occur.

2. Do not try to give him anything by mouth to eat or drink.

3. Feel for a pulse at the wrist or in the temple or feel over the chest for a heart beat. If he is conscious he will have one. If he has a heart beat, leave him alone and don't do anything else.

4. If he is unconscious and there is no heart beat then you should attempt artificial heart massage. Breathing will usually be stopped also. In this case turn him on his back and put a small pillow under his neck to thrust his chin outward. Have him lying on a hard surface, like the floor, not a soft bed or couch.

5. Strike a blow with your fist on the chest over his heart and see if it starts on its own. Repeat if necessary.

6. If the heart doesn't start, sit down on your heels beside him and place the heel of one hand over the lower part of the breastbone over the heart. Place your other hand on top of this hand.

7. Now, keeping your elbows straight, raise up on your knees, exerting a quick downward pressure with your hands. This forces the breastbone down and compresses the heart. Then release the hands suddenly and sit back. Make one downward movement each second, compressing the heart at a rate of about 60 beats a minute. You can count one-thousand-and-one, and so on to help you keep a steady rate.

8. If someone else is present, he can do mouth-to-mouth respiration. Be sure the victim's throat isn't clogged. Then hold the victim's nose and exhale into his mouth at a rate of about 10 breaths a minute. If no one else is available you can stop compressing the heart about every 20 seconds and exhale three breaths into the victim's mouth if he is not breathing. Some patients will be breathing and this step can then be eliminated.

Press down on the breastbone enough to cause it to move down and back about two inches. You may fracture a rib if you press too hard, but that is better than letting the person die with no broken ribs. If the pulse starts again you can stop the procedure.

QUICK QUIZ

Q-Why are black cats and witches usually depicted together on Halloween?

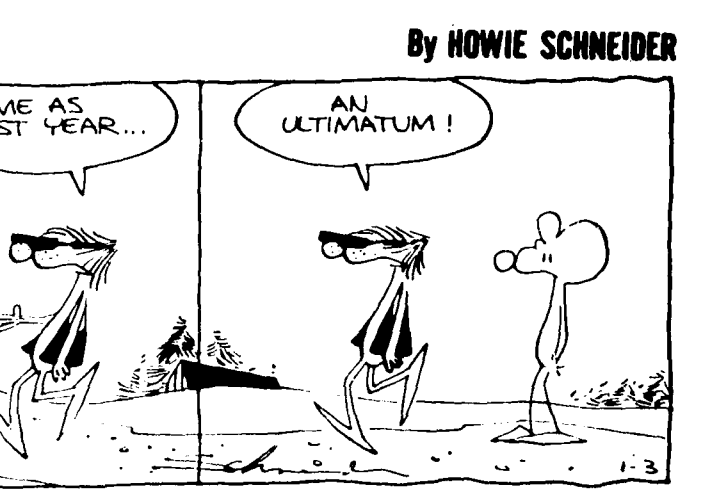

A-This superstition goes back to the Middle Ages when Satan, or the devil, was believed to appear often disguised as a black cat.

Q-Why is Sept. 25, 1956, an important date in the history of labor?

A-It was on this date that the Ford Motor Company established an eight-hour day and a five-day week.
